WITH THANKS

Firstly, thank you for your interest in stocking Ruth Emma Fox illustrated print and ceramics. As a small, independent business it's always nice to hear from potential clients and stockists.

HOW TO USE

This catalogue shows the products available to potential clients. If you'd like a closer look at individual products it could be beneficial to also take a look at our online shop listings.

Each listing in this publication has a unique code that you can use to identify and communicate the items you're interested in stocking. This can be sent via email or using our stock request form (available online). We will also send you a price list upon request.

We'd love to hear from you! For a new stock enquiry please send an email with a little information about your gallery or shop with an idea of the products you sell, and/or a website link to your shop site.

Thank you for your time and interest. Have fun browsing!

We look forward to hearing from you,

Ruth Emma Fox

COMMISSIONED WORK AND LICENCING

Ruth also works on commission based projects for client led briefs. In the past this has included licenced illustration for bespoke merchandise and commercial use.

Ruth has undertaken commissions for a number of high profile shops and galleries that have resulted in successful sales and recognition. Please ask if you have any queries for a project you have in mind.

ABOUT

The Roots of My Illustration

Ruth Emma Fox grew up in the English countryside and spent much of her time developing her practice in London. Ruth's work is often inspired by her upbringing and family roots.

When studying her Grandfather sadly passed away and she inherited his engineering tool box that hadn't been open for nearly thirty years. The box was full of tools that had their own ornateness and craftsmanship about them.

'Through illustration I wanted to capture the ornateness of the tools as well as the craftsmanship required in order to use them.'

Continuing within these themes Ruth used her upbringing on a small holding as further inspiration - providing a wealth of gardening tools and plants to draw.

To learn more about this story you can see the illustrated version here along with photographs that are over 100 years old. To do so visit the website link below: <https://www.ruthemmafox.co.uk/how-it-began-the-story-so-far>

Ever since then?

Ruth has been commissioned by high profile galleries, museums and companies to illustrate for product lines, digital publications and illustration for print.

Enjoying it so much that she has recently extended her small business to launch a new range of carefully crafted ceramic and print based goods. All made close to home in England.

Adorned with some of the everyday tools and objects we value the most that allow us to make, craft and grow.

Ruth now spends her weeks illustrating for commissioned work, designing, packing and posting orders.

With a focus on considered design and locally crafted products. Ruth Emma Fox's illustrated pieces combine both traditional and contemporary illustration practices. This way of working is one in which Ruth has perfected for over a decade.

When combining Ruth's crafted illustration with bespoke, high-end manufacture, the result is unique, lasting design that is considerably made. Bringing contemporary decorative arts into your daily life and home.

... Make, Craft and Grow

Carefully sourced ceramic and paper pieces are chosen for their lasting abilities that balance practicality with endurance. Each item is adorned with illustrations that celebrate how we make, craft and grow. Considered, high quality manufacture is at the core of celebrating the illustrations that they showcase.

A great example is our ceramic cups. Each one is made by a team of highly skilled people who work within the historic English potteries. Each stage is undertaken by a different person with their own set of expertise. Ruth's fine bone china cups are screen printed and the designs are carefully applied by hand. In the final stage they are hand-dipped and selected. With a human element each, cup has been lovingly made whilst supporting English manufacture that's only a short visit from home.
